

COUNTY BOND SALES $70,463 OVER THE TOP

Adams county is $70,463.75 OVER THE TOP in the Third War Bond campaign which closed Saturday at midnight.

With all official issuing agencies reporting their sales over the week-end the tabulating committee announced today that sales in Adams county during the campaign which started September 9th totaled $2,204,563.75. The quota for Adams county was $2,134,100.

Thus concludes the greatest financial undertaking in the history of Adams county. To most observers the final result was a surprise. Most people did not believe it possible for Adams county to unearth that much money so soon after the Second War Bond drive and on the heels of the September 15th income tax payment.

"We'll Do It Again" However, the volunteer workers undertook the difficult task with the slogan, "We did it before and we'll do it again," as their by-word.

Bond purchases of $2,204,563.75 does not represent the total amount of bond purchases made by Adams county in the drive.

No credit is given this county for the bonds purchased by local residents who work in defense plants in York, Baltimore, Harrisburg, Chambersburg, Mechanicsburg and elsewhere, on the payroll deduction plan. Those purchases are credited to the county where the individual is employed.

Had these purchases been credited to Adams county where the buyer resides the grand total of bond sales would be far in excess of the published figure above.

The official total, which will include sales made to counties-out of the county and credited to Adams, other than those made in defense plants, will not be known until state headquarters makes its final report. This will require several days to tabulate.

Shorb suffered a split lip, and Miss Maxine Brown, 22, a sister of the driver of the other car, received a laceration of the forehead. According to Private Ackerson the accident occurred when Brown, after coming to a stop at the intersection of the Natural Dam road and the Emmitsburg road, pulled out into the main highway into the path of the Shorb car which was traveling toward Gettysburg.

PREMIERE OF ARMY PICTURE THIS EVENING

The technicolor of the talkies, Irving Berlin's masterpiece of World War II, "This Is the Army" has its premiere at the Majestic theatre here tonight at 8:30 o'clock. . . . the entire proceeds of which will be turned over to the Army Emergency Relief fund. Every penny (except the tax) goes to the Army relief fund. There are no expenses deducted.

Berlin, who has scored hundreds of song hits, is at his best in this production with smash hits that have swept the country. To the original stage cast of 350 has been added stars from Hollywood and the radio, singing "This Is the Army, Mr. Jones." "I'm Getting Tired So I Can Sleep." "With My Head in the Clouds" and other hit tunes.

Other Attractions

As he did in "Yip, Yip Yaphank" his soldier show of more than 25 years ago, and again in "This Is the Army," Irving Berlin sings his plaintive lament, "Oh How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning."

Then, there are the infectious high-jinks of the comedy "find" Sergeant Julie Oshins, whose good-natured humor and masterly timing made him a comedian to be remembered after the war; Sergeant Ezra Stone, the original Henry Aldrich of radio fame; Sergeant Philip Truxex, Jr., and Private Joe Cook, Jr., the revealing impersonations by Sergeant Alan Manson and Private James MacColl; the lightning-fast acrobatics of the Allon trio, the "K.P." juggling of Corporal Larry Weeks, the sleight-of-hand of Sergeant John Mendes, and heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

Dad-Son Tie-up
The Hollywood contribution includes George Murphy, Joan Leslie, Lieutenant Ronald Reagan, George Tobias, Alan Hale, Charles Butterworth and Una Merkel, telling the story sequence written around the soldiers' show by Captain Claude Binyon and Casey Robinson. The story reaches back to the "Yip Yip Yaphank" of World War I and returns to the present with a warming father and son tie-up.

Dr. Walter S. Mountain, chairman of the local committee sponsoring the premiere, said today that all the $2.20 and $1.65 seats are sold but that there are a number of good $1.10 seats available for tonight's showing.

MEN IN SERVICE RAISED TRAVEL VOLUME IN '43

More than half of the 66,761 persons who visited the Battlefield during the travel year which ended September 30 were members of the armed forces, the National Park office announced today.

The soldiers and sailors totaled 39,234. The number of cars visiting the field was estimated at 16,342. Visitations to the field were about one-fifth of last year's total.

The proportion of military visitors to civilian during the ban on pleasure driving was approximately 90 per cent military and 10 per cent civilian, the park office said. After the ban was lifted the civilian visitation was 50 per cent of the total.

That percentage was born out Sunday when over 500 cars toured the field, one of the largest numbers in recent weeks, according to Captain Carl Taute, superintendent of the National Cemetery. Thirty-two guided trips were counted Sunday. Over two-thirds of the cars were from other states than Pennsylvania and Maryland, Captain Taute said. Visitors from 33 different states registered at the National Museum Sunday.

September Highest
Guided tours of the field totaled 1,339 in the past year compared with 6,433 for the year ending September 30, 1942. Bus tours during 1943 totaled 24 as compared with 202 during the preceding year.

September saw the largest number of visitors here during the entire summer. Visitation during September was 15,012 as compared with 9,931 in September, 1942. There were 315 guided tours in September as compared with 257 for the same month last year. Guided tours over the recent Labor Day week-end were 73. Last year for the same period there were 95.

Workers and soldiers from other states stationed near here increased the number of out-of-state licensed cars visiting the field. Some of the leading states represented in guide tours through the park include: Pennsylvania, 394; New York, 152; Ohio, 78; Maryland, 70; New Jersey, 63; Illinois, 49; Michigan, 44; Massachusetts, 38; District of Columbia, 31; Texas, 29; Virginia, 22; California, 22; Georgia, 20; Florida, 19; Connecticut, North Carolina and Missouri, each 18.

Couldn't Accept, So They Withdrew

Two "candidates" nominated for positions on the election ballot at the recent primaries withdrew over the week-end because they would be unable to fill the offices if they were elected to them, the office of the county election board announced today.

J. R. Hartman, justice of the peace in Reading township, won the Democratic nomination for justice of the peace in that township, but would be unable to accept because his present term has two years to run. Robert P. Wentz, Butler township, was nominated on the Democratic ticket for council in Biglerville, but would be unable to serve because he is not a resident of that borough.

YANKS PUSHING FLEEING NAZIS TOWARDS ROME

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 4 (AP)—The British Eighth Army, with the support of Allied Naval forces which penetrated the Adriatic, have landed and clinched positions at Termoli, on the Adriatic coast almost midway between the Italian heel and the mouth of the river Po in northern Italy, official frontline dispatches announced today.

Simultaneously, United States troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army, have surged forward from Benevento in their march on Rome from Naples and have captured an important crossing of the Calore river, thereby threatening to turn the flank of any water defense line which the Germans may attempt to hold along the Volturno river.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's advance up the Adriatic coast—along the historic path of conquerors toward the Emilian Way, which leads to the Po valley—likewise threatened to turn the defenses of German Marshals Rommel and Kesselring which may be centered about Rome and the Appennines.

Leapfrog Tactics

His march was advanced greatly by the leapfrog tactics of amphibious landing forces which seized Termoli by surprise, beat off German counterattacks, took an undisclosed number of prisoners well behind the enemy's rear and then made a junction with the main body of the Eighth Army which continued to pound up the coast.

Termoli is 50 miles north of Foggia, the airbase city, and approximately 17 miles north of Gen. Montgomery's previous position at the mouth of the Fortore river just north of the "spur" of the Italian boot.

Immediately north of Naples, Fifth Army patrols with strong British armor support, stabbed relentlessly at the retreating Germans and found enemy resistance stiffening, apparently because the Germans were intent upon slowing down Clark's advance long enough to withdraw heavy equipment and supplies across the Volturno.

Delaying Action

The Fifth Army's march also was impeded greatly by German demolition parties which were blowing up every bridge, road junction and culvert.

With the Americans across the Calore river and in a position to strike westward in force, the Germans appeared able only to fight a delaying action along the Volturno once Clark's main body reaches that stream.

While Montgomery's amphibious undertaking, a repetition of the tactics that permitted rapid advances along both Sicilian coasts, made spectacular gains, other Eighth Army forces pushed to the northwestern edge of the Foggia plain (Please Turn to Page 2)

BALKANS HEAR REDS CONSIDER NAZIS' TERMS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Associated Press War Analyst)

The Balkans are boiling with reports that Germany is seeking a separate peace with Russia, and that Moscow is considering the idea.

These and other recent stories along a similar line undoubtedly were inspired by Berlin. They perhaps were put out partly as feelers, but certainly with the hope of creating distrust among the Allies.

Along with this, Hitler has ordered his commanders to hold a "blood wall" across northern Italy and to "defend Fortress Europe" to the last drop of blood. A German commentator hands out the word that this is a "guaranty that the Nazi armies in fortress Europe will be able to hold their positions many years, if necessary, until the Allies are convinced the war is futile."

The intent of this is obvious—to implant in the minds of the Allies the thought that, after all, it might be better to make peace now than to let the war drag on interminably. There's no doubt the Fuehrer knows he's beaten and wants to get out of the war on the best terms possible, though Berlin noisily continues to deny it has any idea of surrender.

Possibility of Separate Peace

Well, would Russia make a separate peace with Germany?

All the indications thus far have been that she has no intention whatsoever of doing so. However, one doesn't need a telescope to see that, with one of the greatest crises of the war now being staged along the Dnieper, military developments might alter Russia's mind.

Moscow's call for the western Allies to open a second front in France has been repeated almost daily as the German retreat has continued. The Russians have kept insisting that the appointed hour for that front was at hand while Hitler was on the defensive. They have said they needed this aid because of the strain they themselves were under. Continued inability to open that front might result in the Soviet taking independent action as regards Germany.

Affairs For Decades

This and other military and political situations continue to emphasize the urgency of the forthcoming conference among representatives of the Allied big three—Britain, Russia and the United States. There are vital differences of viewpoint to be reconciled if the victory which the United Nations assuredly are winning on the battlefields isn't to be nullified by clashes among themselves.

The chief task of these three paramount world powers is, of course, to reach common ground between the Soviet union on the one hand and the Anglo-American partnership on the other. Since this involves great and delicate issues, it's most encouraging that they are to be attacked shortly in conference by such vastly experienced statesmen as our own Secretary of State Hull, British foreign secretary Anthony Eden and Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia.

These three will pioneer the way for greater cooperation both in warfare and in post-war plans. This done, it's expected that President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill will set together in a parley which literally may determine the course of affairs for decades.

Won't Exclude U. S., Britain

The way things look now, all three powers are anxious for a friendly adjustment of the problems which have been troubling them. In this connection the week-end produced an event which Turkey interprets as a friendly gesture towards the western Allies.

I refer to the manifesto issued by the patriotic front of Bulgaria, calling on the Bulgarian people and army to break with the Germans and to collaborate with other Balkan nations and America, Britain and Russia on the basis of the Atlantic charter. Istanbul believes this manifesto was inspired by Russia, and this being so it is a remarkable document because the Soviet regards the Balkans as its sphere of influence and heretofore has appeared to frown on any Anglo-American intrusion, such as invasion. The gesture seems to mean that Moscow doesn't intend to exclude Britain and the United States from Balkan affairs.

Thus the three-power conference bids fair to meet in a favorable atmosphere. Once such difficult issues as that of the "second front" and the Balkans can be ironed out, we may be able to get an answer whether Russia will grant the Allies air bases in Siberia for operations against Japan.

STATE CHECKS MAILED

and occupied the town of Motta, 28 miles northwest of Foggia, a commune announced. The communiqué did not say when the town was taken.

The communiqué also announced the occupation of Montemileto, 11 miles southeast of Benevento, on the flank of the American column which reached and crossed the Calore.

Take Other Towns

Other towns and villages taken within the Allied line stretching across Italy included Castelfranco, 20 miles northeast of Benevento; Ginestra, also northeast of Benevento; Montecalvo, 16 miles east of Benevento; Mirabella, Melito and Bonifazi, all east and southeast of Benevento; and Lapio, Alitavilla and Arpina, south of Benevento.

In the inland push to the west from the Foggia plain the Eighth Army also occupied Roseto, Volla-rino and Alberona, all south of Motta, and Pietra and Montecorvino, northeast of Motta.

Rain still falling in the Naples area yesterday impeded Clark's drive beyond the city where essential services and food supplies were being organized quickly by Allied forces to relieve the dangers of famine and epidemics.

But the weather did not prevent Allied Air forces from going out to impede the German retreat, and American Marauder bombers attacking Castelvolturno at the mouth of the Volturno on the north side of the stream and blasting roads east of that point without encountering either enemy fighters or anti-aircraft fire.

For the first time Marshal Albert Kesselring sent up his fighters to attempt to beat off Allied bombing attacks on his communication lines farther north, particularly in the Isernia area, 55 miles north of Naples.

Firemen Ask For Clean Up Week

Gettysburg firemen today urged all residents of the town to make an annual clean-up of debris about their properties during fire prevention week, which began Sunday.

There were 12 fires, preventable, most of them, preventable, local firemen said today. Many of the grass fires occurring during the month were due to carelessness, the firemen pointed out, and hundreds of dollars in property losses could have been saved by taking proper fire precautions.

Each year preventable fires cause thousands of dollars to be lost through damage to Adams county property, it was asserted.

With the winter season coming on, chimneys should be looked after and rubbish piles in cellars and attics should be cleaned out, the firemen said, so that fires will be at a minimum during the coming winter and spring season.

Turkeys were bred and domesticated by the Incas and Aztecs and first introduced into Europe by Vasco da Gama in 1530.

EXPECT SHARP TAX INCREASES UNDER NEW PLAN

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—Tall, bald and mild-mannered Henry Morgenthau unfolds for Congress today the Administration's view that around $10,600,000,000 in added taxes is needed next year to finance the war and curb inflation.

He is expected to propose sharp increases in income taxes, on individuals and corporations, and probably much higher levies on luxury items—liquor, beer, tobacco, pop, gum, and travelling.

Even before he formally presented the Administration program for next year's general revenue bill, a bi-partisan bloc began taking shape around a determination to resist severe increases in individual and corporation taxes, and there was a definite atmosphere of skepticism on the ability of Congress to add to the present annual tax collection rate of $38,000,000,000.

Luxuries to be Hit

Some leading lawmakers thought that four or five billions would be all that could be found at this time.

A large portion of any new revenues probably will come from added levies on "luxuries."

The Administration, as explained to members of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees, wants the excise on liquor raised from $6 to $10 a gallon. One lawmaker estimated the $10 figure would mean—on the basis of 80 drinks to a gallon—that one jigger would carry a tax of 12 1/2 cents.

The members outlined the tentative Administration programs as follows:

Corporation Levy to Jump
Individual incomes—A jump in rates to produce an additional $6,610,000,000 annually, which might mean an increase in the withholding levy on taxable portions of wages and salaries, from 20 to 30 per cent for some income groups. However, a portion of the increase would embody a compulsory savings plan under which $3,560,000,000 of the $6,610,000,000 would be refunded to individual taxpayers after the war.

Exemptions for married men, in the tax computations, would be lowered from $1,200 to $1,100; for single persons it would remain at $500, and dependents exemptions would be reduced from $350 to $300. The Victory tax would be absorbed in the income tax increases.

Corporation incomes—a rate jump from 40 to 50 per cent.

BULLETINS

London, Oct. 4 (AP)—American Flying Fortresses, supported by long-range Thunderbolts, swept into Germany today and attacked targets in Frankfurt, which is 91 miles southwest of Kassel where RAF heavy bombers struck last night, it was announced today. The Air Ministry also said that British Mosquitos bombed Hanover and targets in the Rhineland last night. Other bombers laid mines in enemy waters.

London, Oct. 4 (AP)—German troops were threatened with the loss of their last tenuous toehold in the Caucasus today as the Red Army drove them back from Staro-Tamanskaya on the peninsula, while on the upper Dnieper river the Nazis fought furiously to block a Russian flanking movement aimed at Mogilev.

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Oct. 4 (AP)—Their last important coastal supply base gone and their land flank beset by a column of Australian troops, the Japanese on New Guinea's Huon peninsula today were squeezed between the mountains and the sea. The enemy's position, General Douglas MacArthur said in a communiqué, was futile if not untenable, and the Allies had every reason to believe the entire northeastern New Guinea shoreline as far as Madang was within grasp.

Cairo, Oct. 4 (AP)—In the first serious German move to contest the Allied advance over the Aegean island stepping stones to the Balkans, Nazi Sea and air-borne forces have attacked Allied positions on the Island of Coo.

The British, announcing the attack yesterday on the second largest island in the Italian Dodecanese group, added the cryptic statement: "The necessary countermeasures have been taken by the defending forces."

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 4 (AP)—The final collapse of German resistance in Corsica was marked today by the entry of French forces into Bastia.

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said today every state in the Union apparently oversubscribed its quota in the $15,000,000,000 Third War Loan just closed. Individual purchases,

HITLER THOUGHTS

When Hitler settles down to sleep,
"Is curious I am,
Do visions start to flame and leap
Of ruined Rotterdam?"

And does he think of Lidice,
A village whole destroyed?
A fearful cruel memory,
Of power he once employed!

Now as the night comes slipping down,
What fears his heart must chill
Who broke the spires of London
town,

But could not break its will!

When Hitler shuts his bedroom door
What must he think today
To hear our planes above him roar,
With more upon the way.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

FAME

What is this running after Fame anyway? What does it give to one, after being reached? Is it not better to leave Fame alone and let it come to you, if you become worthy to receive it?

What did Edison, Pasteur, Franklin, and numberless others of like caliber, care for mere Fame? What do you suppose Charles Steinmetz cared for Fame as he retired to that little cabin of his, on a side hill, near Schenectady, New York, where he could be alone to think out problems in electricity? The thrill of discovery, of new revelations in Nature, and their application to the good of mankind meant more than any possible Fame to this genius.

What I like to term as Background Men—those who only work for the use that they can be to the world
—are those who really deserve Fame.
But because they do deserve it,
they care nothing for it! Personal achievement and satisfaction mean
so much more.

Those who seek only the glitter
and acclaim of Fame bury it with them. The others leave it as a precious heritage to all posterity.

Our brave, heroic dead, upon the battlefields of the world, sought no Fame yet their Fame shall forever remain deathless. And what a responsibility rests upon us, the living, to see that they shall not have died in vain. What a legacy of Freedom they have left behind them in the world! Written, indestructibly, upon the hearts of all who live is their Fame.

In laboratories, research plants,
and in many an out-of-the-way
place, men and women are working, experimenting, and giving of their very life substance, that something good, useful, and helpful to humanity, may finally be evolved or created. What do such workers care for mere titled Fame?

There is no glory, or happiness, quite equal to that of one who has helped another to a well deserved Fame, and especially to a Fame never at any time sought. The most lasting Fame has always been that one which has followed no Fame in life. Imagine the editors of his day paying Edgar Allan Poe for his contributions, sums so trifling that it seems difficult to believe it. I know of one book by him upon which a publishing house advanced $15.00
in royalty, but which demanded a legal document to bind the deal! A copy of the first edition of that same book today would bring nearer $200.00 at auction, or in a rare book dealer's hand.

There is no Fame superior to a good day's work, honestly, happily performed!
Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Blunts."

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The County Fair: The heavy rains interfered largely, not only with the attendance, but with the exhibition of articles. All things considered, the Exhibition was a creditable one. The attendance on Thursday, notwithstanding the rain, was in excess of any day last year.

The display in the large building was attractive and systematically arranged. There was a large collection of silk and worsted work,
home-made carpets, embroidery,
needle work, natural and artificial flowers, oil paintings, chromes, pencil drawings, preserves, jellies, canned fruit, honey, butter, bread and cakes. The sewing machine interest was well represented, with pianos,
cabinet organs, marble work, etc.
We noticed a walnut arm-chair on exhibition by John J. Bingley, of Hanover, said to have been made in England in 1430—also an earthen crock represented to be 162 years old. A tastefully arranged cage of stuffed birds and small animals,
prepared by Dr. T. T. Tate and H.
G. Geyer, attracted much attention.

There were fine specimens of heavy and quick draft horses, hogs, sheep and horned cattle, with some fine poultry.

The receipts amounted to $3,027.67.
There will be an indebtedness of $1,000 to be added to the $5,000 of last year, making a total debt of $6,000.

Married: On the 27th ult., by the Rev. W. Owen, Mr. George W. Balt-man to Miss Martha J. Rouzer, both of Adams county.

Dull-Myers: On the 4th inst., by the Rev. D. M. Blackwelder, Mr.
John H. Dull, of Straban township, to Miss Susan Myers, of Butler
township, Adams county.

Dell-Dundore: On the 24th ult.,
by the Rev. W. P. P. Davis, Mr.
George W. Dell, near Gettysburg, to Miss Carrie E. Dundore, of Hunters-
town.

McGlaughlin-Myers: On the 16th
of August, by the Rev. M. Bushman,
Mr. John C. McGlaughlin to Miss
Maria E. Myers, all of this county.

Meals-Shaffer: On the 1st inst.,
by the Rev. D. M. Blackwelder, Mr.
Jacob B. Meals to Miss Sallie E.
Shaffer, both of Huntingdon township, Adams county.

Valentine-Grove: On the 17th ult.,
by the Rev. M. Bushman, Mr. John
A. Valentine to Mrs. Elizabeth
Grove, all of this county.

Sold: Mrs. Baugher has sold her property on West Middle street to Henry A. Picking, Esq., for $3,025.
Mrs. B. has purchased a lot from Prof. Ehrhart, near the Preparatory building, and will put up a cottage.

The executors of Christian Musselman dec'd, sold the real estate of said deceased's farm of 320 acres in Hamiltonban, to Jacob Mussel-man, for $40.75 per acre, and the farm of 190 acres in Liberty township, to Samuel Musselman, for

BUMS, INDIANS CLINCH 3RD AS LEAGUES CLOSE

By TED MEIER
The Associated Press

Unlike a year ago when the St.
Louis Cardinals didn't clinch the National league pennant until the last day of the season, the finale of the 1943 baseball season yesterday decided only third place in both major leagues.

Although beaten by Cincinnati, 6 to 1, the Brooklyn Dodgers took third money in the senior loop when the Phillies, idle for three days,
up and dealt the fourth place Pittsburgh Pirates a double defeat, 3 to 1 and 11 to 3.

Cleveland nosed out the fast closing Chicago White Sox for third in the American league by beating the Philadelphia Athletics, 8 to 4, in 11 innings. The White Sox walloped the Boston Red Sox twice, 4 to 2
and 3 to 1, for their 15th victory in 18 games, but finished half a game behind the Indians.

Win Tune-ups

The championship St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees finished their tune-ups for the World Series by again beating the Giants, 5 to 4, and the Browns, 5 to 2. This gave the Cards 105 victories for the season, only one less than last year,
and marked the first time in 30 years a National league champion has repeated with more than 100 triumphs.

The Yankees wound up with 98
victories, the lowest for the eight American league clubs Joe McCarthy has piloted to a pennant.

Dizzy Trout, of Detroit, pitched the Tigers to a 4 to 1 victory over Washington and joined Mort Cooper of the Cards; Spud Chandler, of the Yanks; Elmer Riddle, of the Reds, and Rip Sewell, of the Pirates, as the only 20-game winning pitchers
for the season.

The Chicago Cubs and the Boston
Braves divided a twin bill, the Cubs
winning the opener, 7 to 0, on Hi Bithorn's four-hit pitching, and the Braves the nightcap, 5 to 2, behind rookie John Dagenhard.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—Now that the proposed Pacific tour by major league all star teams has received an Arctic response from the War Department, why not take up colleague Whitney Martin's suggestion and start a domestic tour? The entertainment would be welcomed on this side, too; it would hardly place an intolerable burden on the transportation system to move 40 odd men around the country, and if the all star teams aren't organized now, we suspect that they never will be. . . . Still looks like Mort Cooper vs. Spud Chandler on the mound for the World Series opener,
in spite of Cooper's reported sore shoulder. Mort pitches the kind of stuff the Yankees are used to seeing—but they're only hitting .254 in their own league.

SCOUTING REPORT

Opinion is divided as to whether the week's best contest will be between the Michigan and Notre Dame teams on the field next Saturday or between Coaches Fritz Crisler and Frank Leahy when they start explaining why their boys are sure to lose. . . . One scout who watched Army Saturday explained he was trying to learn whether Glenn Davis, the plebe sensation, could run to his left. The nearest he came to finding out was when Colgate tacklers approached Davis
from both sides; Glenn feinted both ways then went right down the middle as both tacklers missed. . . .
We didn't learn Saturday night just how strong the Phil-Pitt pro team is, but we can guarantee there's plenty of strength in the Shibe park press box. It supported spherical Steve Owen of the Giants, Scout Jack Lavallé and Herman Hickman, the Army line coach, without even creaking. They'd likely be glad to settle for a total weight of a half ton.

DELONE ELEVEN DEFEATS YORK

Delone Catholic high snapped a two-game losing streak by downing the York Catholic high gridgers on the McSherrystown gridiron Sunday afternoon 20-0 before approximately 1,000 spectators.

Early in the second quarter Bill
Noel crashed over from the one-yard line, culminating a 65-yard drive begun late in the first period. H.
Noel's dropkick for the extra point failed.

Opening the third quarter Delone received the kickoff and moved to midfield and was then forced to punt. The ball was downed on the 2-yard stripe. J. Denuel attempted to rush the ball on the next play
and was thrown behind his own goal line for a Delone safety.

Funk raced around right end for about 15 yards to score early in the final quarter. Again H. Noel's drop-kick was wide.

Delone scored its final six-pointer
midway in the period when Folmer went over from the two-yard stripe after an intercepted pass gave the Squires the ball on the visitors' 5.
H. Noel's dropkick was blocked.

York made its only threat to score against the Delone reserves late in the quarter when a series of passes to J. Allen took the ball to the 13 where Delone took the ball as the game ended.

SIX TEAMS TIE FOR LEAD IN BIG 15 GRID CIRCUIT

(By The Associated Press)

Six teams, all undefeated, are tied for the leadership in the big 15
football conference, while Roaring Spring, with only one win and no reverses, is in sole possession of first place in the Western scholastic conference.

The standings, released by loop officials, show that John Harris and William Penn, both of Harrisburg, and Williamsport actually are on the top of the big 15 heap with two victories each, although tied in the percentage column by Allentown, Lancaster and Steelton, all with one triumph.

Easton, York and Pottsville have not participated in conference play,
but the latter school is scheduled to open tonight when it entertains
Sunbury in a postponed game.

Ten Points Apart

The first six teams in the western conference are only ten percentage points apart. Roaring Spring is credited with 125 points, compared with 105 for Tyrone, defending champion. Huntingdon, with two wins and a tie, is second with 118 points.

COLLEGE TEAMS GAIN DECISIVE WINS SATURDAY

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—College football steps into the wings the early part of this week for the World Series but crowds back onto the stage this week-end with such contests as Notre Dame at Michigan and Duke visiting Navy.

Those two games include four of the nation's best teams and their coming collisions have built up such enthusiasm that Michigan's Acting Ticket Manager Andrew Baker indicated that the midwestern scrap might be a sell-out by tomorrow.

Notre Dame drubbed Georgia Tech on the accurate flinging of Angelo Bertelli, 55 to 13, to prepare for the Wolverines. The Big Ten club, in turn, downed Northwestern, 21 to 7, but wasn't too impressive.

Duke, which hasn't been scored upon in three games, punished the North Carolina Pre-Flight outfit, 42
to 0, while Navy had almost as easy
a time in drubbing Cornell, 46 to 7.

Scores as a whole last Saturday were of the lopsided variety. Army crushed Colgate, 42 to 0; Pennsylvania trimmed Yale, 41 to 7; Princeton downed Columbia, 26 to 7, and Dartmouth blanked the U. S. Coast Guard academy, 47 to 0.

Upsets in South

In the midwest, Great Lakes knocked off Pittsburgh, 40 to 0; Indiana worked over Wabash, 52 to 0; Minnesota drubbed Nebraska, 54
to 0; Ohio State downed Missouri,
27 to 6, but Wisconsin stopped Iowa,
7 to 5.

Upsets were frequent in the south
and southwest where Louisiana State mastered Rice, 20 to 7; Southwestern trimmed Texas, 14 to 7,
and North Texas State knocked off Southern Methodist, 20 to 6.

Pacific coast teams followed form
with Southern California edging out California, 7 to 0, in the major contest.

Announcement in Washington
that President Roosevelt had approved the November 27 Army-Navy struggle apparently spurred the two service elevens to their big triumphs.
The President ruled the game must be played at West Point, however, with only bona-fide residents of the area eligible for tickets.

Except for the two top games this week-end's program lacks luster except for the meeting of Pennsylvania and Dartmouth in Philadelphia.

Chapter 16

Ben Roberts dashed away in the direction Jane had pointed, drawing his revolver as he ran. He had seen nothing—but he was hearing plenty. The intruder, apparently knowing he had been discovered, was crashing through the underbrush like a great, lumbering animal.

Once Ben thought he saw something and fired quickly, but the shot either went wild or he had been mistaken, for the fleeing man crashed his way ahead. Finally, realizing that further pursuit was useless, Ben turned back.

"No go," he told Jane, who was waiting at his post. "Now I wonder . . ."

"So do I wonder," Jane agreed. "Listen, Ben, you should have help out here. You're so far from the mill and the other men that anything could happen."

Ben chuckled. "I keep my eyes open, Jane," he said. "After all, I don't want Virginia to be a widow yet a while."

His tone was bantering but Jane caught the feeling underneath. Ben was worried. He, too, realized something was going on.

"I'll tell the chief," he promised. "But don't you worry. Wish I could walk home with you, Jane, but I'm not supposed to leave my post."

Jane nodded that she understood. Well, take care of yourself, Ben," she cautioned and left after promising to stop in town and see Ben's young wife, Virginia, and their baby. There was something new about the forest now. It was almost dark, especially where the giant pines reached skyward, their branches sweeping out over the trail so that only a little of the gray light of the winter afternoon filtered through.

Jane walked briskly. She wasn't afraid, but she didn't like to think of what might have happened to Ben—maybe even to her—if she had not seen that man. What had he been doing, snooping around the mill property?

She kicked at a hump of pine needles, angry at herself for refusing to link Brad's name with the man who had fled such a short time before. Why shouldn't she believe that? Hadn't she seen him going to meet Brad?

Teeth clenched to keep from crying, she strode out of the pines toward the house. Aunt Ella must not see her tears. She couldn't bear to face the older woman's questioning eyes.

"Hello, dear," Ella looked up from the book she was reading before the fireplace. "Did you have a nice walk?"

Jane nodded. "Very," she said, tossing her coat over a chairback. "Brr, it's cold, though."

Mrs. Black dog-eared a page and closed her book. She stretched her feet toward the fire.

"Young Forester has been calling for you, Jane." There was a hint of disapproval in her tone. "I told him you were out and I didn't know when you would be back."

"What did he say?" Jane drained the answer but she had to know.

Ella shrugged. "What could he say?" she parried. "Would I have you call when you returned?"

"And?"

Mrs. Black gave her an odd glance. "And I told him that that was up to you, my dear. Very definitely."

The Chronicle news room seemed noisier than usual to Brad, who was trying to concentrate on a story. But Brad found his thoughts straying time and again. He jumped when the telephone on the desk next to his rang. He glanced up every time someone came in. The noise was deafening.

At least, that's what he was trying to tell himself. He didn't want to admit that he was restless because Jane hadn't called.

There was no change in Ed Black, but his wife had been definitely hostile when he asked for Jane. Why? He swore a little because leaving his reporter's job would cause wonder. Not even Mike Patrick knew who he really was. Only Ed Black knew that.

Brad practically leaped at his telephone when it rang. "Forester speaking," he said, then: "Jane, I've been waiting for you to call."

"Have you, Brad?" Her voice came to him like that of a frightened child. "Well?"

Brad hesitated. He glanced down at the phone, as though expecting it to tell him what was wrong.

"Jane," he lowered his voice, "I've something to tell you. I saw Brad at the funeral. He . . . Jane, what's wrong?"

He heard the tight little gasp. What the hell? He thought.

"Nothing, nothing at all, Brad," she said. "What were you saying?"

"Brad," he repeated. "He was at the funeral. I knew him from your description. He must have recognized me, too, for he fled when I came out of the grocery store on the corner. I asked the cops to put a man on his tail."

"You called the police?"

Was there a decided emphasis on the "you"? A puzzled frown furrowed Brad's brow. He tapped nervously on the desk with his pencil. He was getting nowhere fast with Jane. She wasn't even acting like the Jane Carter he knew. Yes, and loved, he admitted to himself now.

"Sure, Jane, why not? They could radio the patrol car at the church and . . . Hello, Jane, are you there?"

The phone was dead. Nothing but the dull hum of an empty line came to his ear.

Impatiently, he jiggled the receiver up and down. When the girl at the switchboard answered, he ordered, "Get me the operator."

Then: "I was talking to Pine Hill-5163."

"I'm sorry, sir. That line will be out of use for 15 minutes while under repair."

Brad thanked her and hung up. There was something so final about her precise tones.

He had time to straighten out his thoughts as he drove toward the Black home in the country. Jane had sounded so aloof. He had to know why.

The big old house looked proud and secure, nestled on the hillside, almost surrounded by sentinel pines.

Brad cut the motor and let the car coast to a stop in the driveway. He ran up on the porch and rang the bell.

"Hello," he said cheerfully when the door opened.

"Young man," Ella Black drew her plump form up proudly, "Jane does not wish to see you."

DETECTIVE IS SHOT TO DEATH WITH OWN GUN

Pittsburgh, Oct. 4 (AP)—Albert T. Lorch, a 62-year-old Allegheny county detective, was shot to death with his own gun Friday night when he attempted to arrest a burglary suspect.

Joseph Stack, chief of county detectives, broadcast an eight-state alarm for Matthew Kozera, alias Matthew Hozera, 33 to 36 years old, stating that the fugitive might be suffering from scalp wounds.

Sought Robber

Officers Rudolph Taylor and George Hoge of Shaler township police said Lorch accompanied them on a search for Kozera, an ex-convict, sought as a suspect in the theft of $117 in cash and merchandise worth $450, including 17 bottles of liquor, from the Boni Tavern in Shaler township Thursday morning.

Taylor said they found Kozera and trailed him to a house but that he eluded them and fled some distance. Then he and Lorch caught up with the fugitive, he said, and attempted to take him into custody.

Taylor said a scuffle followed in which Kozera wrested Lorch's pistol from him. Taylor said five shots were fired at pointblank range. Lorch, who suffered one bullet wound over the heart, another under the right arm, died a half hour later in St. Francis hospital, without being able to relate details of the fight. Taylor said Kozera escaped after the shooting.

The police broadcast described Kozera as five feet eight and a half inches tall, with medium complexion, blue-gray eyes and dark brown hair. Police records show he was sentenced to 20 to 60 years in prison for armed robbery July 25, 1931, and that he was released August 8, 1942, when his sentence was commuted.

Lorch, who was a veteran justice of the Peace before he became a detective, was known as the "Shooting Squire" for his exploit of June, 1927, when he chased three bandits and shot two of them as they attempted to escape across fields near North Park.

GAS NEEDS RISE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Petroleum Administration for War announced yesterday an increase to 90 per cent of normal requirements of gasoline allotments in the Pittsburgh district for the period through October 13. The increase is 10 per cent more than was allowed for distribution in the district in September.

Flashes Of Life

TURNABOUT

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP)—A state employee wrote her soldier husband in a southern camp that the shortage of candy was holding up a gift box she planned to send him.

A few days later she received a package from her husband. It was filled with assorted candies.

BACKFIRE

Idaho Falls, Idaho—A hook-and-ladder fire truck raced through crowded downtown streets with the siren screaming, but it failed to draw the expected crowd of fire chasers to the scene of a war bond auction.

Unaware of the purpose of the run, motorists for once heeded off repeated warnings not to follow fire trucks.

RESCUER

Spokane, Wash. (AP)—Louis Robinson, 41, Grand Coulee traveling salesman, pleaded guilty to a police court disorderly conduct charge but paid only a $5 fine after explanation:

"I saw two guys roughing up a soldier, so I stepped in and started swinging."

"How did I know they were detectives?"

UNLAUNCHING

Santa Monica, Calif. (AP)—A shipwreck tied up street traffic two hours Sunday and necessitated re-routing of Pacific electric trains.

The 30-foot power boat capsized in the street after slipping off its trailer. Lifeguards helped get it under way again.

May Offer Reward In Convict Search

Pittsburgh, Oct. 4 (AP)—County Commissioner John J. Kane said today he would seek approval of a $1,000 reward by the county for the capture of Matthew Kozera, 35, a paroled convict sought in connection with the fatal shooting of County Detective Albert T. Lorch Friday night. An eight-state search continued for Kozera.

District Attorney Russell Adams announced he would seek an additional $5,000 reward while the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph offered a $1,000 war bond for information leading to Kozera's arrest.

Funeral services for Lorch, 63, who was shot with his own gun as he grappled with a robbery suspect, were held today.
